KARL BLOSSFELDT: Art Forms in Nature
May 18 to July 7
Presentation House Gallery

Presentation House Gallery's current exhibition offers a rare opportunity to see extraordinary botanical photographs by the renowned early 20th century Germany photographer Karl Blossfeldt.

During the first three decades of this century Blossfeldt photographed plants by the thousands - flowers, buds, stems, seed capsules and clusters. First used as teaching aids in his design classes, then published in 1928, these intimate plant portraits now occupy a firm place in the history of 20th century art and continue to influence artists, designers, architects and photographers today.

Thursday, June 20th, 7:30pm

TYPE, STEREOTYPE, ARCHETYPE: Karl Blossfeldt and the New Objectivity.
Lecture by Rod Slemmons, independent curator and writer, and former Curator of Photography at the Seattle Art Museum. Free. Everyone welcome.

Gallery hours, Wednesday - Sunday, 12 - 5pm, Thursday, 12 - 9pm
Admission: Adults: $2.00, Seniors/Students: $1.00
